DALLASTOWN AREA HIGH SCHOOL

Foreword

Tomorrow the world with its tribulations and opportunities receives us -- the seniors of Dallastown Area High School. As graduating seniors, we now feel that we know what we are, but we do not know what we may some day become. Hesitantly yet enthusiastically, we anticipate assuming our roles in a world of explosive changes, competition, and invention.

Our world is a complex and progressive one; it is not the "horse-and-buggy" world of our grandparents. Jets fly passengers across the United States in a matter of hours; telephones allow us to communicate with any country in the world; highways and automobiles transport us at amazingly fast rates of speed; and automation frees us from the tedious jobs that occupied so much of our ancestors' time.

But with this progress we experience the same type of complexity that recently confronted New York when its electrical system failed and the city remained in darkness for several hours. This massive power failure once again reminded us that machinery can never completely replace man.

With this in mind, we have prepared ourselves to become teachers and ministers, parents and doctors, clerks and scientists, mechanics and engineers. Our friends and our past activities, our teachers and our high school studies have recorded priceless memories on our minds. With the bursting of a flashbulb and the clattering of a press, the SPECTATOR Staff has captured some of these joys so that we may cherish and recall our past experiences. As we occasionally review this book, may it inspire us to make the world of tomorrow an even greater realm of existence.

Board of Education

England has its Parliament; the United States has its Congress; and Dallastown has its Board of Education. Dallastown's School Board, headed by Thomas Smith, controls the educational system and supervises improvements in the school system. Members of the Board are elected to their positions by the community in which they serve.

Directly responsible to this governing body are individual men who supervise affairs within the school system. The Supervising Principal, S. Ray Grimm, Jr., has charge of planning, organizing, and directing the joint schools' educational program. Mr. Grimm is responsible for interviewing and hiring new teachers and observing and evaluating teacher performance. To assist him, Ralph N. McSherry serves as Administrative Assistant and Carl Glatfelter serves as Business Manager.

Dallastown Area High School is more directly supervised by High School Principal Clair A. Trout, who directs education and Faculty. His authority encompasses both the senior and junior high, but he in turn gets assistance from Assistant Principal Clay E. Givler in the senior high and Robert H. Hays in the junior high. Both of these men are in charge of student scheduling, school discipline, and student activities.

Curriculum Coordinator Joseph Rojahn works with Mr. Trout to set up standards for courses of study, which serve as guidelines for teachers. He constantly revises the curriculum to provide students with recent information.

Working together, these men and women serve the community, Faculty, and students well. Because of their efforts, Dallastown Area High School provides abundant opportunities for the many individuals whom these Administrators govern.

THE BEGINNING

by Diann Leiby

A beginning is to be forgotten.
It reeks too much of fear and doubt.
Its middle name is frustration.
Flush it from your mind --
We were children then.

A beginning is to be forsaken.
The goal is won; forget the pain.
A victor never counts his losses.
Forget it friend; it's done --
We were children then.

This beginning is to be forever.
We can begin to live but once;
We can never start again!
This beginning is for men --
Are we children still?

CLASS SONG

Words and Music by Pamela Smith

We close the door on high school days
And on our alma mater dear
Remembering knowledge we have gained
Throughout each high school year.
With guiding hands they urged us on
To climb in life to greater height.
The light from past experience
Guides our footsteps in the right.

We say goodbye to days of youth
And go to face life's trying tests,
And with the strength they gave to us
We'll search to find success.
These treasured years at Dallastown
Within each heart have firmly fixed
Fond memories of our high school
And the Class of "Sixty-Six"!

Gee, I really need a shave.

STUDENT

Executive Council

In a September assembly officers and members of Student Council took their oaths of office; Morris Barshinger officially began his term as President. With the help of faculty advisers Larry F. Cisney and Miss Ann Weyant, Morris did a splendid job of heading both branches of the Council -- the Executive Council and the Representative Council.

The active Council handled these projects: the traditional handbook, several assemblies, morning devotions, and music in the cafeteria. Council members planned the Homecoming festivities, breaking a contentional idea by holding the football game and dance on separate evenings. It again conducted "Operation Santa Claus" and added another goodwill project, "Mail-Call Vietnam." The Council completed the foreign exchange program and began plans for next year. On March 31 the Council hosted approximately 300 students from 75 schools for the Annual Pennsylvania Southern District Student Council. During an active and successful year, the Student Council promoted a more efficient and more enjoyable school life as it gave the student body a voice in its government.

Foreign Exchange Program

Victory at last after two years of planning brought smiles to the faces of both members of Student Council and students of Dallastown. The Council had succeeded in selling enough shares of stocks to finance the first foreign exchange student; then the American Field Service placed her at Dallastown.

Eagerly, the student body waited on the first day of school to hear Rosalind Bonnette from Sydney, Australia, tell her impressions of America. Happiness and love shone on her face as she thanked her hosts and host family, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Heller. The American way of life fascinated her.

As students learned to know her, they felt the warmth of her personality. All were proud when she became an honorary member of the Homecoming Court. They admired her for her portrayal of Madge in the Senior Play; but most of all, they were happy to have known the energetic Rosalind.

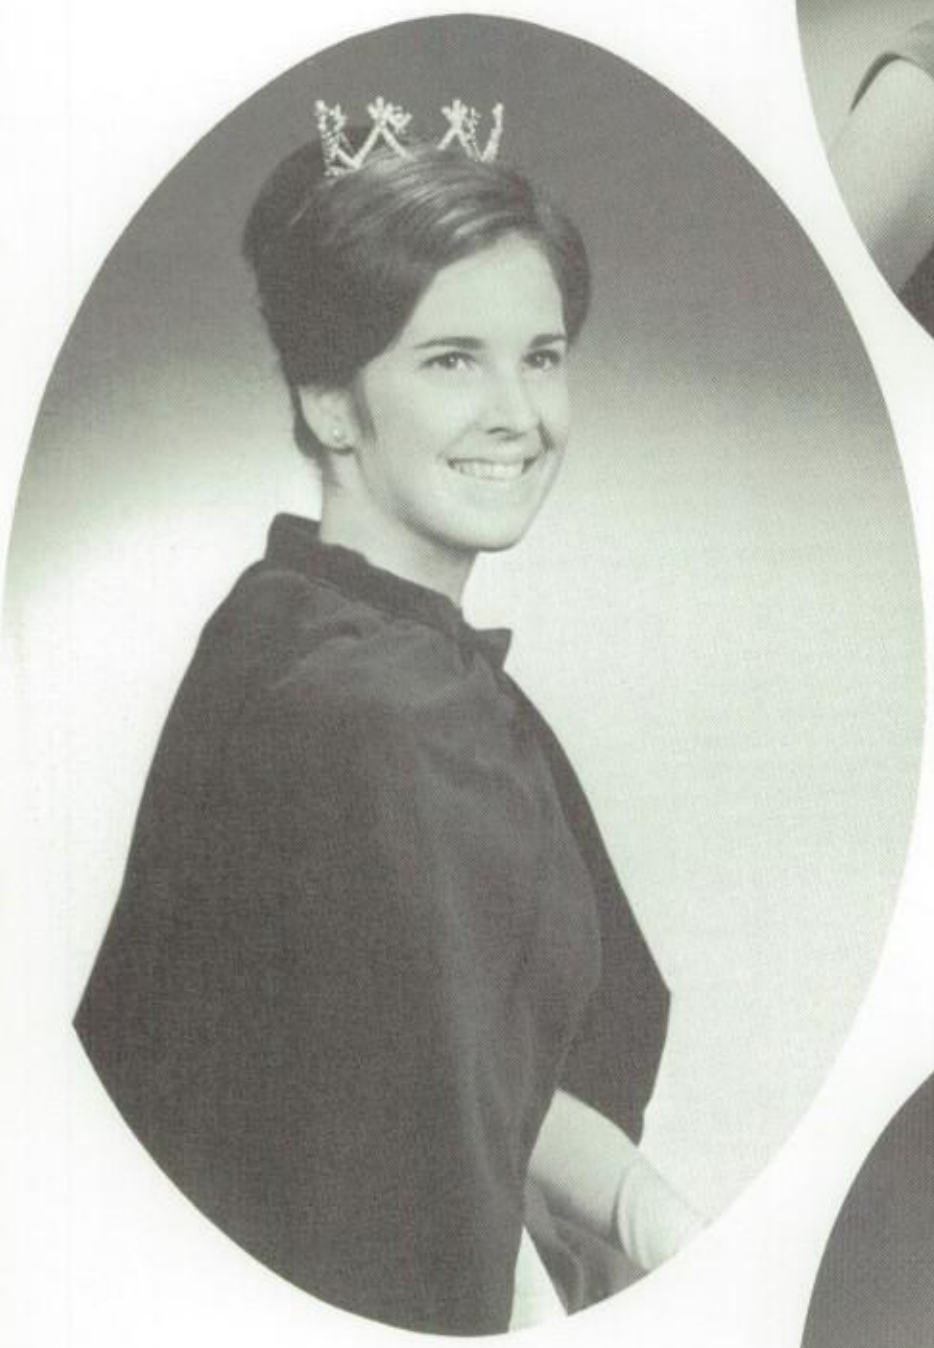
NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Jeffrey Thomas, past president of the National Honor Society, acted as the judge in a mock trial which was held to install this year's members of the National Honor Society. The witnesses, Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service, the four traits needed to become a Society member, testified in behalf of the defense. The jury, made up of last year's members, found the new candidates guilty of these four qualities, and the prosecuting attorney called the defendants to the stage. Each of the defendants received a sentence of membership in the National Honor Society.

The new members were granted honor passes, which entitled them to free periods or unassigned study halls. Linda Garrett became the new president, and P. Lynn Henry replaced the past faculty adviser Mrs. Mary Holloway, who has retired from teaching.

The Dallas Imperial Chapter of the National Honor Society annually inducts eligible students; fifteen per cent of the senior class and ten per cent of the junior class are possible candidates for the Society. After students become scholastically eligible, faculty members rate them in other areas; these ratings are reviewed by a faculty committee, and the members are selected on the basis of their fulfillment of requirements for membership.

HOMECOMING



Her Excellence Tamara Shirey

Rosalind Bonnette

Sandra Butcher

Royalty mixed with rain and a smashing Wildcat football victory over the Trojans of Suburban when the eleven members of Dallastown's Homecoming Court rode past the crowded bleachers. Not one of the eight senior girls knew which one of them would reign at the Homecoming Dance the following evening, but all looked radiant as they smiled at the spectators. Equally lovely were the junior high princesses and our foreign exchange student, an honorary member of the Court.

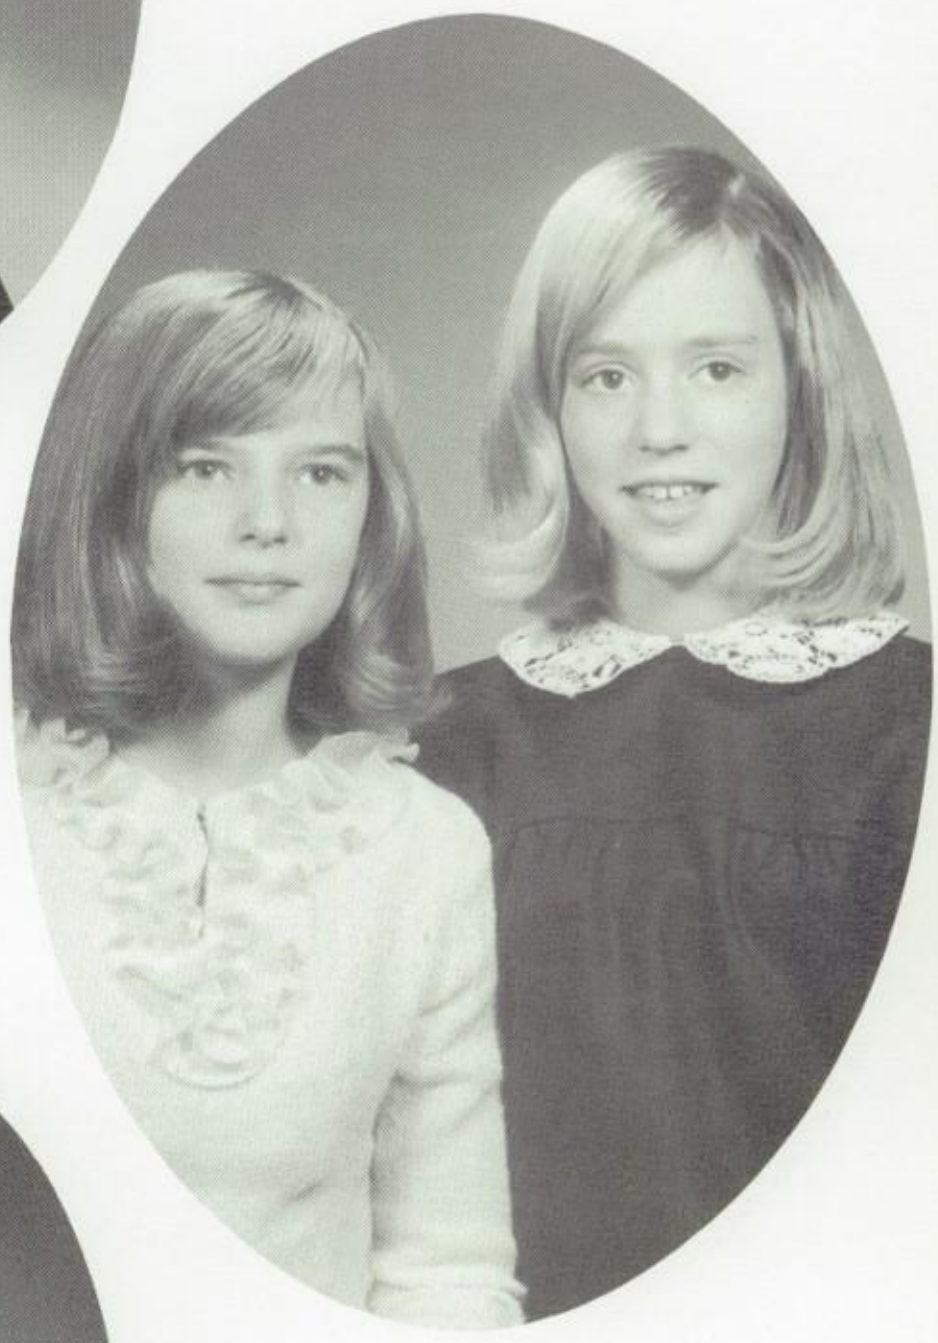
COURT — 1965

Carolyn Dehoff

Linda Garrett



At last Saturday evening arrived. Student Council had decorated the gymnasium with a goal post wrapped in alternating blue and white streamers; white cloths on small tables further enhanced the decorations. Slowly the alumni, students, and faculty gathered, and the ceremony began. Faculty Adviser Larry F. Cisney introduced each member of the Court; only one candidate remained. With the blast of a trumpet, Tamara Shirey rose to accept her crown and cape. She was Dallastown's 1965 Homecoming Queen.

BEACON

Literary Staff

Revisions . . . deadlines . . . galleys . . . trips to the printer -- all were familiar words to members of the BEACON Literary Staff as they gathered news for the school newspaper. Mrs. Brenda Deller, faculty sponsor, never realized that so much work went into a newspaper. But she had confidence in JoAnn Heltzel, Editor-in-Chief and occasional photographer. Assistant Editor Jenny Jansen always had her notepad ready for news about student activities and students. Problems were numerous, but the Staff persevered and students received eight exciting issues of the BEACON during the year.

SPECTATOR

Literary Staff

A staff of artists, photographers, and writers began in the spring of 1965 to prepare the school yearbook. Directed by Miss Sylvia Hott, the staff chose the theme -- "Tomorrow, the World . . ." Editor Nancy Moyer and her assistant Linda Ciccarelli made an initial plan, a ladder diagram. Then work began. Section editors made lay-outs for each page while photographers snapped pictures. Then typists typed write ups in copy blocks, and the completed pages went to the printers to meet a deadline.

Beacon Business Staff

Posters hid the tile walls at Dallastown this year when the BEACON and SPECTATOR Business Staffs began publicity campagins. "Bigger and Better than Before," "Buy a BEACON," read only a few of the tag lines which the staffs had devised to sell more newspapers and yearbooks. Because of student sales and patronage from local businesses, the school was able to finance the publications. But the actual managers were Douglas Smith, BEACON Business Staff Manager, and Charles Landis, SPECTATOR Business Staff Manager. To assist these two faculty members, student managers Cheryl Moore and Judy Barley and their staffs volunteered many hours of service. What a relief it was to the Business Staffs when books balanced and profits mounted; they had participated in an important part of journalism.

CHORUS

Students who have singing ability have abundant opportunities to join one of the many singing groups at Dallastown. These groups include the Concert Choir, composed of 53 selected members from the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades, the Ninth Grade Chorus, also composed of selected students, and the Girls' Chorus, made up of senior high school girls who chose chorus as an elective. In addition, Joseph Campanella conducts a select group of students in the Junior High Chorus.

Accompanists for these groups are Pamela Smith, Concert Choir; Jann Folkenroth, Ninth Grade Chorus; and Diann Leiby and Cheryl Heller, Girls' Chorus.

Some of the accomplishments of the various groups are assemblies, concerts in local churches, a Christmas concert, the annual "Vocal Night of Music," and various appearances on television and radio. Also the groups take part in the District and Regional Chorus. This year John Betlyon, bass; Cheryl Moore, alto; Jody Snider, alto; Tammy Shirey, second soprano; and Margaret Sechrist, first soprano, participated; they represented Dallastown at Millersville in March.

Only because of the combination of many hours of rehearsal and the capable leadership of Ronald Dietz, along with the co-operation of the officers, accompanists, and the members of the choruses, are these groups ready to bring to the public some of the finest music. Dallastown can be proud of the many accomplishments of these singing groups.

Majorettes

The Dallastown Marching Band has made a name for itself as far away as New York City. Last spring on May 10 and 11, 1965, the Band visited the New York World's Fair to play at the Tiparillo Band Pavilion on a warm Monday afternoon. After the performance the marchers rushed to the New Mexico Pavilion to play for dedication ceremonies. As a token of appreciation, the Governor of New Mexico sent seach band member a key chain.

At Dallastown in the fall the Band drilled, getting ready for half-time shows during football games. Drum majorette Susan Alexander led the Band in its routines, which Richard Powell directed.

The Band marched in several local parades and won first place in the Red Lion Halloween Parade. The members also marched in the York Halloween Parade.

In January band members welcomed Glenn A. Zockoll, the new Band Director, who continued to drill the participants. In the spring he also directed the Band Concert.

For its hard work and continuous practice, the Dallastown Band has drawn favorable comments; much credit is due to Richard Powell, past Band Director, and to Glenn Zockoll, the present Band Director.

JUNIOR PLAY CAST

On April 3, 1965, the curtain came down on the second and final performance of the junior class play "The Curious Savage" by John Patrick. Under the direction of Walter Vogelsong, the cast, stage crew, and various committees worked extremely hard to be rewarded by success in both performances.

In an unforgettable role, Fae Matthew portrayed a lonely old woman who thwarted the plans of her greedy step-children who attempted to lay their hands on her money by having her committed to a home for the mentally disturbed. A merry chase ensued as the Savages tried to track down the money, only to discover that inmate Jenny Jansen had burned the teddy bear that held the money. But in the final act Mrs. Savage recovered her fortune and said goodbye to her strange, yet contented. friends at the asylum.

SENIOR PLAY CAST

Faculty Director -- Margaret Gargasz.

Reginald Rose's "The Remarkable Incident at Carson Corners" proved to be a remarkable incident at Dallastown Area High School when Miss Margaret Gargasz directed a twenty-six member cast and produced an extraordinary play with a serious theme.

Unfortunately, the audience couldn't see the students and faculty members behind the curtains. Stage crews, prop committees, make-up committees, a lighting crew, ushers, a publicity committee, and ticket takers worked vigorously to produce an entertaining play. Linda Ciccarelli, student director, shared some of the responsibility with Miss Gargasz, who was grateful for the assistance from both Linda and Donna Chronister. Faculty member Alfred Waltemyer co-ordinated the numerous committees. Much planning and much skill combined to present this stimulating plot.

The mock trial, which took place in a high school auditorium similar to Dallastown's, held the audience in suspense as Dallastown actors walked down the aisles and assumed the roles of parents and students of Carson Corners in 1950. Incited by the accidental death of a classmate, students called the accused to court to try to find out who had murdered Billy McGinnis. Was the janitor responsible because he had failed to repair the fire escape landing, or was the building inspector at fault for not condemning the building? Had the overworked doctor neglected his duty when he refused the telephone call, or did the druggist cause Billy's death when he moved the body? If Mr. McGinnis had nailed that final brace to the landing fifteen years before, would Billy still be living? Slowly the blame fell on not one individual but on all of these men who had neglected their duties to their fellowmen.

As the curtain fell on the final performance on November 20, 1965, the cast knew that the hours of practice and discipline were worth the effort. Reward came with joys and tears, curtain calls and applause. A remarkable incident had taken place in Dallastown's auditorium also.

Though Scenes Will Be Forgotten, Memories of High School Days Will Stay with Us Always.

ALMA MATER

Upon a pleasant hillside
Stands one we love so true.
Our loyalty, oh High School
To thee we pledge anew.
Where'er our paths may lead us,
Our praise to thee will sound.
Forever we'll be faithful.
We love thee, our Dallastown,
We love thee, dear Dallastown.

Though lonely and discouraged
Or tried by care and pain,
One thought of thee inspires us
Our courage to regain.
For still thy clinging memories
Within our hearts abound
To bind us to our High School
Forever, dear Dallastown,
We love thee, dear Dallastown.
